Passing through the customs at the Canadian border, even in war time, is an easy matter. I have been through the customs several times and recently found the going no more difficult insofar as the customs are concerned, than any other time.

However, the U. S. military authorities stationed at the customs houses are more strict and demand further identification than either the U. S. or Canadian customs officials.

It is really more difficult to get back in one's own home country, than to get out of it at the present time, due to the U. S. Military officers.

Passing through the Canadian customs, a few commonplace questions, such as where were you born and where do you live, and are you an American citizen, are asked. A cursory inspection of luggage is made. It is necessary to open each piece of luggage for this casual inspection.

Coming back into "the States" one is asked where born, where living, if American citizen, if one has more money than they took into Canada, how long they were in Canada and if one has any goods to declare, meaning any purchases made in Canada.

Invoices of all goods purchased are necessary, together with a statement of what was purchased. This is written on a sheet and one must sign the declaration and leave the invoices.

Those who have been in Canada over 48 hours may bring back, duty free, purchases up to $100 per person. A more careful search is made of one's luggage at the U. S. Customs offices, but packages of china or other goods are not opened by the officers, so that only a few minutes is necessary to inspect luggage.

The military officers ask more pointed questions and rather insist that one has positive proof of citizenship, such as a birth certificate, sworn statement of a Notary Public, or other information proving American citizenship. However, I did not have a birth certificate or sworn statement and here I am!

HITLER'S HORDE ON RUN

Rains Slow Progress in Ukraine But Attacks Are Continuing

LONDON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The great Red army summer offensive, spread-eagle over a 600-mile long front from the Sea of Azov north to the forested terrain beyond the strategic rail junction of Bryansk, was rocking the entire German hold on the Dnieper River valley and threatening the vital power hub of Dnepropetrovsk, Soviet dispatches reported today.

The Germans were said to be retreating along the entire front.

REDS TAKE NEZHIN
LONDON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Russian troops have captured Nezhin, on the Kiev-Kursk railroad 80 miles northeast of Kiev, Moscow announced today in a special order of the day. Capture of this important town on the main rail line opens the way for an assault evidently intended to crack the middle Dnieper German defenses.

SOLDIERS CHARGED UNION DUES, CLAIM

Charge Follows Work When They Met Emergency

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Soldiers who worked recently at one south Jersey cannery to relieve a labor shortage during the peak of the tomato season were compelled to pay union dues, Herbert W. Voorhees, president of the New Jersey Farm Bureau, said today.

Voorhees, in an address prepared for delivery at the New Jersey State Fair, said: "I was shocked beyond words to learn that when a contingent of soldiers reported for work at a certain south Jersey cannery, the management was instructed to make the usual union dues deductions from the cannery pay envelope of each one."

Famine Faced by Rome

PROPAGANDA TUNE OF NAZIS IS CHANGED

LONDON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The German propaganda machine radically changed its tune today, not only admitting that the Allied forces in the Salerno bridgehead had not been evacuated but were "offering resistance" near the coast under cover of naval guns.

Yesterday, the Germans said warships were being used to cover a withdrawal.

The toning down began last midnight when a Nazi commentator observed, "The Allies have got their teeth into Salerno and even the most experienced soldiers find it difficult to push them back into the sea."

JAPS NOW AT LAE IN DEATH TRAP

Yanks and Aussies Close In As Nips Take to Jungles In Scattered Bands

By OLEN CLEMENTS
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Japanese faced with annihilation at Lae, New Guinea—a fate which has overtaken most of the routed Salamaua garrison—fell back today before Allied pincer forces on two sides of the big air base.

Allied forces landed from the sea above Lae on September 4 now stand only a mile from the southern end of the Malahang airfield, the bigger of two at Lae.

Americans and Australians who landed from transport planes in the Markham valley September 5 have swept through two prepared positions west of Lae and are expected momentarily to engage in bitter fighting with Japanese at Heath's Plantation, eight miles from the town.

Eighteen miles below Lae, where the Allies have captured the airfield and harbor town of Salamaua, General MacArthur's headquarters said "the enemy is completely routed and his forces destroyed." Only a few scattered groups succeeded in fleeing into nearby jungles.

JUSTICE ROSENMAN TO QUIT POSITION

Supreme Court Jurist To Be President's Counsel

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt once more has a "right arm" in the person of Justice Samuel I. Rosenman of the New York State supreme court.

Back in 1928, when he was governor of New York and Rosenman was his personal counsel, Mr. Roosevelt appointed "Sammy the rose," as he is now known around the White House, to the state supreme court, and in doing so he said: "This act of mine today is one of the most unselfish things of my life, because I am cutting off my right arm."

NAZIS BLAMED FOR PLIGHT OF OCCUPIED CITIES

Germans Make Demands on Italian Farmers To Bring In Their Produce

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The specter of famine hangs over Rome and the Nazi-occupied cities of northern Italy, dispatches from the Italian frontier said today.

Nazi authorities in Rome broadcast a proclamation telling the Italian people that "after the treason of Badoglio and the rupture of the treaty of alliance between the Reich and Italy, the German military have taken Italian territory under their protection."

The proclamation admitted resistance had occurred "even in Rome" to German occupation but declared that order now had been restored. It ordered all persons to deliver their firearms to German authorities by today or be shot.

German General Stein, who signed the proclamation, declared that saboteurs would be punished severely, the dispatches added.

A Swiss Telegraphic Agency dispatch from Chiasso reported that Nazi parachute troops had taken up positions in St. Peter's Square and added that the fate of Pope Pius XII and that of other high church prelates who had taken refuge in Vatican City is at present unknown.

JOHN PURVIS HELD BY FBI AS NAZI SPY

Citizen of Portugal, He Began Espionage Year Ago

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation announced today the arrest in Newark, N. J., of John Da Silva Purvis, 43, on charges that he acted as a spy for Germany.

Hoover said Purvis transmitted information to his "principals" in Europe, and on two occasions received cash payments for his services.

Purvis, a Portuguese citizen, allegedly began his espionage activities early in 1942 when he was contacted by a crew member of a neutral vessel who had been recruited by the German intelligence service.

VICTORY TAX REPEAL NOW BEING SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Repeal of the 5 percent victory tax was proposed by a member of the house ways and means committee today as a cure for the decimal point jitters suffered by many income tax payers.

Rep. Robertson (D-Va.), member of the committee which originated the tax, said there must be some simpler way of collecting the $2,000,000,000 a year netted from the victory levy.

HERE'S WHERE FIGHT RAGES BETWEEN YANKS AND NAZIS

THIS IS A VIEW of a section of Salerno, on Italy's west coast, where General Mark Clark's Fifth Army and units of the British Army have established a firm beachhead after throwing back furious counter-blows by the Germans. Allied aircraft are attacking enemy concentrations and communications here night and day, flying from fields in southern Italy. Both sides are throwing reinforcements into the battle. Allied Advance on Balkans From Middle East, Reported

LONDON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports reaching London from Stockholm via Ankara today said that Britain's great 9th Army—a force which the Germans assert has been designated for an Allied drive into the Balkans—was on the move today from its Middle East bases facing the island pathway into Greece.

British military officials had no comment to make on the Ankara reports, published in the Stockholm Svenska Dagbladet, which said that Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson's army had embarked for an "unknown destination."

The dispatch coincided here, however, with authentic accounts of ferment in the Balkans, of sweeping new successes of Yugoslav guerrillas, and reports of fierce fighting between German and Italian troops in the Dodecanese Islands off the Turkish mainland.

The Algiers radio, in a broadcast recorded here by the Associated Press, today again forecast that "important new military developments are imminent," and it was pointed out that the surrender of the Italian navy has cleared the Mediterranean for any assault against German positions in southeastern Europe.

Bases of the 9th Army in Syria and Transjordan are only 400 miles from the island of Rhodes and less than 600 miles from Crete, Axis outposts in the Mediterranean.

A summary of accounts of Balkan unrest reaching here gave this picture:

YUGOSLAVIA—Forestalling German and Croat troops, partisan forces reportedly have occupied more than 100 miles of the Dalmatian coastline on the Adriatic Sea opposite Italy.

RUMANIA—A state of "near crisis" was said to prevail with the government of Premier Antonescu losing its control.

BULGARIA—Alarm over the capitulation of Italy has heightened throughout the country, with agitation for a break with Germany reportedly increasing.

DODECANESE ISLANDS—Ankara dispatches to London morning newspapers said that German forces, using dive-bombers and tanks, have defeated a garrison of 40,000 Italian troops holding the islands.

Reports from Cairo, however, said that despite great confusion caused by the Italian surrender, the Germans still have the Balkan situation well in hand and will have to be pried out of their positions by Allied force.

FIRST HUNTING CASUALTY IS SHOT FOR SQUIRREL

NEWARK, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Clifford Clark, 65, a retired B. and O. Railroad engineer of Newark, was shot in the left side of the face, left arm and knee this morning in the first reported accident of the hunting season.

Deputy Sheriff Glen Tyle said Clark was sitting behind a tree when his cap was mistaken for a squirrel by Thomas Henry, 48, also of Newark.

WARSHIPS POUR IN SHELLS

Reinforcements Rushed To Embattled Fifth Army as British Drive Nearer

By NOLAND NORGAARD
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Allied troops have beaten off fierce German counterattacks against the Salerno bridgehead in Italy but were forced last night to yield some ground gained earlier, in order to straighten their lines.

New support came to Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's forces—the strongest air attacks of the Mediterranean war and the thunder of naval guns offshore.

Today's Allied communique disclosed that savage, close-quarter combat raged along the whole Fifth Army front from Salerno to Agropoli 27 miles south, with both sides throwing heavy reinforcements of troops and armor into battle.

British Eighth Army troops speeding up the west coast to support the landing drove through the village of Belvedere, 67 air miles from Agropoli, to close the gap between Allied forces to some 80 miles of coastline by land.

Heavy, see-saw fighting swirled in the Salerno sector, and the Northwest African Air Force hurled all planes at its command against the Germans, flying more than 2,000 sorties from dawn Tuesday to dawn today in the greatest air attack ever witnessed in this theater.

Not a single Allied plane was lost.

FDR IS CHALLENGED ON APPOINTMENTS

Rep. Dies Leads Fight To Get Them Ousted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Three federal employees whose Americanism has been questioned by Rep. Dies (D-Tex.) intend to ignore the effort of Congress to top them off the payroll November 15.

Dr. Goodwin B. Watson, one of the trio, made this clear today in the wake of President Roosevelt's criticism of the congressional action ordering their dismissal.

Dr. Watson, chief analyst of the foreign broadcast intelligence service of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), said he and the other two—William E. Dodd, Jr., another employee of the FCC, and Dr. Robert Morss Lovett, government secretary of the Virgin Islands—would go right on working after November 15.

He said he was not familiar with what legal steps might be taken to keep their names on the payroll. In event the comptroller general rules against them, the three could carry their case to the court of claims.

TOUGH FIGHT IN ITALY COOLS CONGRESS MOVES TO PUT CURB ON DRAFT

deputy chief of staff, told senators today that an army of 7,000,000 by the end of this year is "the minimum force required for the tasks ahead" and warned that any reduction would necessitate a change in the nation's strategic commitments.

McNarney was the first of an all-star procession of high army and navy officials called before the Senate Military committee to testify on the need for further enlargement of our fighting forces.

Congressional leaders have indicated the decision on whether to defer or end the general drafting of fathers will hinge on high command "justification" for such enlargement.

Gen. McNarney said the 7,700,000-man army figure had been approved by his chief, Gen. George C. Marshall. The deputy chief of staff added:

"The collapse of Italy does not affect these figures."

He said that on September 1 the army's strength was approximately 7,800,000 officers and men. Inductions for the rest of the year, he said, will vary from 145,000 to 175,000 a month, but he explained the apparent overage was caused by the fact it is necessary to induct some 75,000 men a month merely to keep the army up to current strength, because of discharges, casualties and similar losses of effectiveness.

"Any curtailment, reduction or postponement of an army of 7,700,000 on December 31, 1943, will necessitate a change in our strategic commitments," McNarney testified.

"Whoever initiates such a change must assume the grave responsibility for ignoring the considered judgment of our military leaders arrived at after careful and prolonged studies."

President Roosevelt disclosed at a news conference yesterday that he has been discussing the father draft question with congressional leaders. One thing might be made clear, he said—the fact that if a man is in an essential industry he would not be drafted.

Reports circulated on Capitol Hill that the President would tell Congress in a message Friday that the needs of the armed forces should come first.

YANKS BEAT BACK NAZIS AT BLOODY SALERNO AS REINFORCEMENTS LANDED

attack in the history of Mediterranean flying.

More than 2,000 sorties were made. A sortie is one flight by one plane.

Even Flying Fortresses took part in pounding the German positions in front of the Salerno bridgehead, with bombers of the strategic airforce alone flying more than 600 sorties.

The terrific air attack was concentrated on the few miles between Salerno and Eboli, 13 miles to the southeast.

The attack was even greater than the huge Allied effort last May 6 that broke the German will to resist before Bizerte and Tunis.

The Nazis managed to bring up more troops to the Salerno sector despite the concentrated pounding of roads by Allied aircraft, and elements of at least one more division—the German 29th motorized—were identified in action against the Allies. At least three others, the Hermann Goering, and 15th and 16th armored divisions, already were in the battle.

Allied naval forces were landing reinforcements all along the Salerno-Agropoli front despite German interference, and the naval communique announced occupation of Sapri Island west of Salerno on Sunday.

The land communique reported that "in some places our troops have been forced to yield ground, but new positions are being consolidated." Both sides made "determined counter-attacks," it added.

The German attacks were strongly supported by tanks that were driven back repeatedly by blistering American and British fire. One U. S. combat team alone destroyed 13 tanks.

The yielding of ground at nightfall straightened Allied lines and permitted consolidation of positions against expected night assaults by the enemy, it was announced.

One officer declared that the end of the day showed the situation was "a little more in our favor, especially with the arrival of fresh reinforcements." The Eighth Army's advance to Belvedere represented a 25-mile push beyond the Cosenza line, which had been announced yesterday as its position.

In the Taranto district on the "heel," British forces liberated 300 Allied prisoners, including 200 Greek generals. They came in contact with German forces at Gioia, about 20 miles northwest of Taranto. This was believed to have been a rear guard of the German first parachute division encountered earlier just north of Taranto.

Naval guns blasted heavily at German positions on the mainland in the Salerno area.

One American cruiser alone fired 355 rounds in a single day at enemy tanks and machine-gun nests.

The naval communique said the U. S. and Royal navies continued to pour ashore troops and supplies at the beachhead "in

BOY WHO STOLE AUTO HERE IS NOW AT LARGE

Trio in B. I. S. Overpower Fireman, Seize His Gun And Escape

Sheriff W. H. Icenhower and other officers in this part of the state, as well as officers in Fairfield County and the Boys' Industrial School, are looking for Donald Altop, 17, of Sabina, and two other youths who were inmates of the B. I. S. near Lancaster, and who made their escape early Wednesday after overpowering the fireman at the B. I. S. power house and a helper.

The trio took with them a pistol carried by the fireman, and are still at large.

Altop was sent over from Fayette County after he and another youth had stolen an automobile here, took it down the Creek Road and stripped it of tires, Sheriff Icenhower said.

With Altop at the time of the escape were Arthur Plau, 16, of Cleveland, and John Steeds, 16, of Shaker Heights.

The escape took place soon after 3 A. M. and a few hours later the trio attempted to stop a farmer driving an automobile south of the reformatory, but the farmer escaped them and reported the attempted hold up.

The trio invaded the power-house, trussed up Royal Wolfe, the fireman, and an inmate who was helping him, then took Wolfe's pistol and fled.

spite of fierce enemy resistance and air interference."

Capri was occupied by an Allied force Sunday afternoon, and defense of the island was left with Italian naval and military authorities cooperating with the Allies.

(German broadcasts, which yesterday had reported the Allies were evacuating their bridgehead, admitted today that the invaders were "offering resistance near the coast under cover of naval guns," and that "the Allies have got their teeth into Salerno and even the most experienced soldiers find it difficult to push them back into the sea.")

Small pieces of ground changed hands repeatedly in the day's fierce conflict. The Germans made their heaviest and most determined attempt to drive the Fifth Army into the sea by sharp thrusts from the villages of Excavilla and Armoniana, situated on high ground overlooking the entire southern portion of the Allied foothold in the Sele river valley.

One officer described the fighting there as "exceedingly bitter." The Allied troops withdrew there slightly, leaving the enemy holding the two villages, but with every prospect that equally violent combat would begin at the first light of dawn today.

pealed to food producers and farmers in the vicinity of the Italian capital to bring food to Rome, promising that it would be used solely to feed civilians. All Rome schools have been closed indefinitely, it was said.

Diminishing food supplies were reported in the north where the Germans have requisitioned all available supplies.

Following the arrest of Gen. Vittorio Ruggero, Italian military commander at Milan, the Lombardy capital was occupied by stronger Nazi military contingents who were reported conducting a vast requisition program and arresting many persons.

Ministers of the Badoglio government who remained in Rome are reported to have been arrested, among them being Foreign Minister Raffaele Guariglia.

never before attained by any army, navy and airforce, Allied aircraft and warships joined in support of the Fifth Army, and the airforce threw in the full weight of its striking power which never before was concentrated on so small an area.

Hundreds of big shells were poured into Nazi positions, where troops concentrated for counter-attacks, by American and British cruisers and destroyers steaming close inshore despite several hit-run bombing attacks and strong counter-fire from German artillery.

Despite all this, Clark's army still was confronted with a terrific fight in its efforts to expand a small bridgehead and gain fresh footholds on the high ground beyond, from which the Nazis can now command the entire beach area.

Despite the Eighth Army's rapid progress, military men said several days must elapse before Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's force could possibly reach the Salerno bridgehead and become a factor in the fighting there, particularly since it must bring up its own supplies.

Amazing results in building STURDY BODIES!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people, especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red-blood. A growing person who is operating on a 65 to 70% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped. In such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or focal infection, if they exist, must be corrected. Tissue foods must be digested and rich, red-blood must be present to build sturdy bodies. S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient and to promote those STOMACH JUICES which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and repair.

These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain a keen appetite . . . firm flesh . . . body energy . . . mental alertness.

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win

THE WAR TODAY

Bloody Battles in Italy Cause Anguish at Home But Confidence Warranted

Difficulties such as our troops are encountering on the open beaches of Salerno are bound to cause worry among the folks back here at home, especially since casualties apparently have been severe, but there's no reason why we shouldn't regard with complete confidence the general position of our battle with the Hitlerites in an already beaten Italy.

Even if the Fifth army units had to withdraw entirely from Salerno, as the lying German propaganda machine yesterday said they were doing, it wouldn't represent a major defeat from the standpoint of the Italian operations as a whole. It would be a nasty but not vital setback.

In order to have a correct picture of the situation we must know that the Nazis have no expectation whatever of preventing Allied occupation of Italy. Their tactics represent an act of desperation which is being carried out largely to try to restore in some degree their shattered prestige, and partly in the hope of delaying the Allies in undertaking other invasion operations.

Our troubles at Salerno haven't been due to the massing of great German strength — though we seem to be outnumbered numerically—but to the fact that the Hitlerites were well established with artillery on the hills overlooking the landing-stages. Our boys had to struggle ashore under heavy gunfire from the heights, and fight their way up the sloping beaches in the face of fierce attacks from tanks and infantry.

I've sailed along those shores, and have motored and hiked in that neighborhood, under the shadows of old Vesuvius. It's beautiful in many parts from an artist's viewpoint, but it's a devilish sector for a soldier to have to invade from the sea.

It doesn't take a big force to defend such admirable positions as are held by the Germans. Actually they are said to have one infantry and two mechanized divisions—or parts of divisions—in the Salerno sector. Full divisions would represent between 35,000 and 40,000 men.

Concentration of these troops on the heights has made it extremely difficult for us to create a heavy attacking force from our invasion units at the beachhead. However, the Yanks obviously have done a sizable job, for at last reports they were holding a 24-mile beachhead and were in possession of the city of Salerno—a place of some 70,000 inhabitants.

Apparently in the early stages of the fighting we did have to withdraw a unit from one point in the beachhead and send it in at another place. So far as information from Allied headquarters goes this represents the sole excuse for Berlin's claims that we were withdrawing wholesale and were beaten. On the contrary, latest advice is that General Eisenhower is pouring reinforcements into the Salerno battle and that the sea is black with transports in that area.

Meanwhile General Montgomery's British Eighth army is pushing northward in two columns from the heel and toe. These columns now are something less than 100 miles from Salerno. They aren't encountering much armed resistance, although they are hampered by mines and Nazi demolitions along the highways, and they are moving so fast that they may reach Salerno in a week or so. An attack on the German

NAVY OFFICERS TAKE SEABEES ON WEDNESDAY

Petty Officers Are at Post Office Each Wednesday From 10 A. M. to 5 P. M.

The U. S. Navy's construction battalions, known as the Seabees, are in urgent need of skilled men who can qualify for high pay and petty officer's rating. Navy recruiting Petty Officers Curtis Beede and W. M. Porter will be at the Post Office here from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. each Wednesday to give information and take applications for the Seabees.

Men with experience of almost any kind can qualify including miners, carpenters, electricians, riggers, operators of all kinds of heavy machinery, steel workers, pipe fitters and plumbers, mechanics, welders, foundry workers, and men in other similar occupations.

Any man with a draft status of 3A or 1A is eligible to enlist in the Seabees.

BUS DRIVERS MUST HAVE CERTIFICATES

24 County School Bus Drivers Lack Certificates

School bus drivers for the county schools are warned by Superintendent of Schools W. J. Hilty that they must get their doctor's certificates of physical fitness into his office at once in order that school bus drivers' certificates may be issued to all of them.

So far, only 18 bus drivers have been offered certificates. Hugh Morris in Jasper School is the 18th driver to be issued a certificate. Twenty-four of the county's school bus drivers still remain without certificates.

Hilty pointed out that bus drivers operating without such a certificate were liable to arrest and emphasized again the immediate necessity for doctor's certificates being turned in to him.

DEMAND FOR DRIVERS' LICENSES CONTINUES

Demand for drivers and chauffeurs licenses is continuing heavy at the Fayette County Auto Club offices, where several extra clerks are assisting in the work of issuing the licenses.

All drivers must have their new permits by September 30, and are urged to obtain the permits as soon as possible to avoid the last minute rush.

rear would change the complexion of things. As a matter of fact, the position of the Germans at Salerno is far from enviable. They've been more or less cut loose on their own, with bad communications to the north, to carry out a suicide job. Their game will be to hit and run—if they can—when Montgomery's troops arrive and things get too hot.

As the signs now read, the Allies should be able to make reasonable progress up the southern half of the Peninsula. The fighting is likely to intensify from Rome northward, and will reach its peak along the Po River in the far north, where the wily Marshal Rommel again is plotting holding operations such as gained him fame in Africa. Much will depend on air power, and we have a superiority.

Delay Caused by Painting of School Rooms

Staunton school is open today after a ten-day delay caused by inability to get painters to complete the painting done in the school this year, County Superintendent of Schools W. J. Hilty said.

The opening of the school was delayed all last week because of the painting and it was thought that the school would open Monday. But unexpected delay in obtaining painters prevented opening on Monday as scheduled.

The interior of the two rooms in the school was painted a light tan.

GOV. EVANS IS LUNCHEON GUEST AT ROTARY CLUB

Organizations' District Head Speaks — Miss Betty Peterson on Program

The Washington Rotary Club was honored by a visit from the new district governor, Charles Evans of Chillicothe, at its regular luncheon meeting Tuesday noon at the Country Club.

All members of the club and guests were very favorably impressed by Governor Evans by reason of his aggressive manner and the alert progressiveness in the practical suggestions he made to the club during his talk as well as his thoughts for club betterment expressed following the luncheon when he met the club officers and committee heads to receive reports on club activities during the past year and their plans for the future.

Past Governor Colin Campbell was called upon to introduce Governor Evans and spoke in high terms of what might be expected from him during his coming year of administration.

The greater part of Governor Evans' talk after the luncheon was devoted to the future program and the purpose of Rotary and the important part it might be expected to play in the post-war reconstruction period. He stressed the importance of the practical side of voluntary service efforts by the professional and business men who compose the Rotary organization which has had a remarkable world-wide growth in recent years.

The fact that Rotary International has been given official recognition by this nation's government as one agency which has exerted more beneficial and friendly influence and good will in bringing the countries of South America closer to this country, was cited as evidence of what Rotary has been accomplishing and what it can continue to do in the future in the difficult period which is expected to follow the present global war.

Following the usual club song-fest led by Paul Fitzwater during the luncheon hour, the club was delighted by the appearance of Miss Betty Peterson of this city, a senior in the College of Music at Ohio State University, who is making a fine record in her work since entering that institution following her graduation from Washington High School. She was one of the fortunate young ladies to be awarded a Dorothy McVitty scholarship and is making the most of her opportunity.

CONVERSION OF ADVERTISING

Bills will be introduced in Congress, at this session, authorizing the United States Treasury to advertise the sale of war bonds in periodicals and the leading local daily and weekly newspapers throughout the country. This question has been discussed before some of the press associations throughout the country, and apparently newspaper men are agreeable to such suggestions, providing there is no actual taint of "subsidy."

In the olden days advertising had only one objective: to sell goods. In the past few years advertisers have given more attention to promotion and institutional copy.

Radio went even further, and finally got clear out on the limb with "commercials." The newspapers were antagonistic, so antagonistic that some publishers refused to carry radio programs. The radio spilled over with "conversion."

National advertisers devote only a part of their space to the product they have to sell. The rest of their copy is apt to tell about the progress made in the conversion of automobile plants to the manufacture of bombers and other great machines all intended for Victory. Some enthusiastic advertisers have gone so far as to charter pages of space in metropolitan newspapers to reproduce articles and comments of famous writers who have hit some home front problems. The subject may be food rationing, too little gas, or arguments pro and con regarding wages and hours. Even the big union labor organizations in Washington use advertising space in which they tell Congress and the Administration to hurry up and repeal the Connally-Smith Act or risk defeat in the next election. That is political conversion of paid space in bad form.

One practical way in which the newspapers have edged in on the conversion of advertising is found in ads of the local business men who support war bond drives for some public service.

The "conversion" of advertising is a new progressive step even though some busy-bodies jump up in the front rows and talk about subsidizing the American press.

Don't overlook the fact that each newspaper in its proper sphere is contributing more to the support of the national government and the war effort than any other class of business in existence.

Before this was known to the American public, Benito Mussolini, who stabbed France in the back on June 10, 1940, disappeared mysteriously from the international scene. And spontaneously, all over the United States, men and women found ready-made another expression borrowed from the national pastime: "One down, two to go."

Now the "One down" has become a fact. Not merely pompous, loud-mouthed, Mussolini is down, but the nation of decent people that he betrayed has collapsed as a belligerent—has thrown in the sponge, surrendered unconditionally.

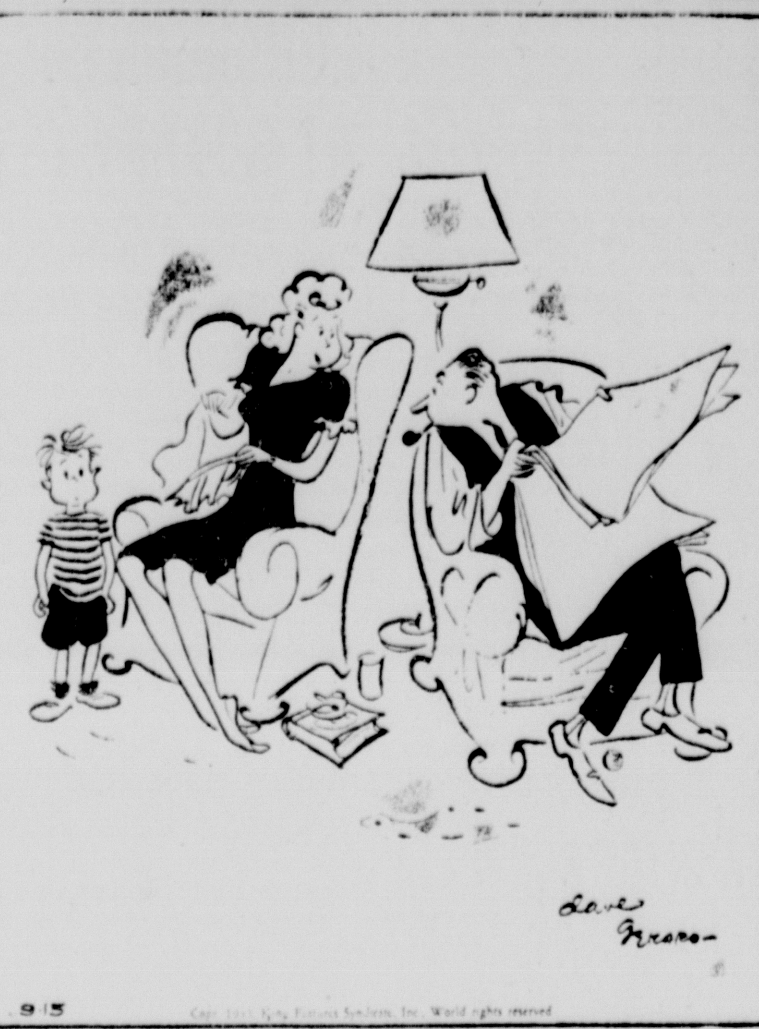

One down. That makes us very happy. Truly, we have passed the end of the beginning and have arrived at the beginning of the end.

But—two to go. The guy who has been tucked away was at the bottom of the batting order, where the pitcher usually is, although Mussolini and his reluctant Italy have done no pitching since little Greece forced Musso to call in a relief hurler. The men now coming up are at the top of the batting order. We can get them out. But there's no use kidding ourselves that we can sneak any floaters past them the way we did with the Italians, who never wanted to play ball anyway.

The Germans and the Japanese are tough babies. They are tough because they love this game of war, because they have been long and well trained in it, because they got the jump on us, and not least because they realize that when they are whipped they are not going to get off as easily as the Italians will.

By all means let us rejoice at the victory over Mussolini and the Italians. But let's forget this out-of-the-trenches-before-Christmas hoohie. It's not only silly. It's dangerous. We've got to whip the Nazis and the Japs until they're paralyzed. So now that we've given three rousing cheers for ourselves, let's get on with the job.

Climate and Vitamin B

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE IS a fascinating theory about modern civilization that I have already expressed in this column, but since it is apropos to the subject I am to discuss today it will bear brief repetition.

The theory is that the reason so little is accomplished in tropical countries is that the heat and perspiration make for a high expenditure of vitamin B from the body, so people in those climates are in a continual state of vitamin B deficiency. Since vitamin B may be called the energy, or pep, vitamin, it is obvious that when there is a deficiency of vitamin B there is a deficiency of energy and work.

The two places in the world where the climate makes for the greatest utilization of vitamin B is the northern part of the United States and the northern part of Europe. Here man shows the greatest inclination to energy and in the United States this is combined with the greatest productivity of the land and the greatest natural resources in the world. So it looks as if the future belongs to that section of the world.

New Experiments

Confirming the idea that vitamin B is the work, or energy, vitamin, some experiments just published in which the actual work done by a group of human subjects was carefully measured on three diets which contained respectively an average amount, a deficient amount and a large amount of vitamin B.

The subjects of the experiment were healthy young males—medical students, which guaranteed an intelligent cooperation in the tests. The work done was measured on an electro-dynamic brake bicycle which could be adjusted so as to measure the exact amount of work done. The subjects exercised on this three times a week, which was the only exercise they took.

They were on Diet 1, which was a normal diet, adequate in vitamin B for about a year. During this time their work record gradually reached a degree of efficiency so that the week-to-week amount could be represented by a straight line. This was considered an average normal for each subject.

Then they were put on Diet 2, which was notably deficient in vitamin B complex. On this diet there was an immediate decrease in the work output. Then yeast was added to the diet to bring up the vitamin B content and the work output increased in all subjects within 48 hours. Within four days one subject did more work than he ever did on the normal diet.

A check was made giving the deficient diet, and increasing the amount of carbohydrate—starch and sugar—which oxidize rapidly in the body and therefore presumably furnish energy, but this did not increase the work output so long as the vitamin B content of the diet was low.

The results seem to be well proved and confirm the theory about the influence of climate on vitamin B retention and population energy.

SYNOPSIS

ADAM NORTH, young bachelor who recently converted an old Linville factory into a war plant, becomes a "fill-in" stand-by for the town's party givers, among them being

SUSAN POTTER, whose husband, Bill, has lately been breaking evening dates to "negotiate" a real estate deal with ALICIA CARTER, a witty flirtatious widow, Adam, unknowingly, is loved by his secretary.

RUTH MOOREHOUSE, who at present is having difficulty dissuading the affections of

JACK VINTON, a mechanic in the plant, ADAM, not being aware of Ruth's feelings, is just becoming intrigued with BRENDA LEIGHT who is now enjoying an extended vacation in Linville, which she left several years ago to launch a journalistic career in New York City.

YESTERDAY: Susan's new attention to her appearance and acceptance of a dietitian's job in Adam's factory bring about a change of heart with Husband Bill, who decides to wind up in short order. Upon arriving home that night, she suddenly warmed heart gets a chilling from Susan when she states she is going out for the evening. Mrs. Platt, one of Linville's social leaders, is producing an amateur play, and Susan is going over to help.

CHAPTER TEN

THAT EVENING, while Bill studied blueprints of small cottages, and while Susan and Brenda made plans with Mrs. Platt, Jack Vinton and Ruth Moorehouse went for a ride. They changed their minds about going to a movie.

"I've been shut up in the office all day," said Ruth. "I'd like to feel the wind against my face. That is, if you've got enough for a drive."

"I have enough to take us out the Vaughan highway," said Jack. "Anyway, enough to get us as far as a cottage I want to show you."

There, it's coming again, Ruth thought; Jack and his talk of marriage. He had told her about the cottage, describing it in glowing terms, and she knew he was going to talk now of how happy they would be in it when they were married and peace had come once more.

Ruth said nothing and tried to relax. As Jack steered the car in and out of Linville's traffic, which was almost cosmopolitan in its denseness, she let her thoughts dwell on many things. But mostly she thought of how she had always wanted a home of her own. Having been an orphan who'd been handed around from relative to relative until she had finished school and become capable of managing herself and her affairs, she had dreamed of being settled in a place she could call her own. And always before her had been the vision of a cottage like that in which Susan and Bill Potter lived. Colorful draperies, soft rugs, the right sort of pictures, and a sunroom, glass enclosed, in which breakfast could be served the year round—the glass slid back for warm weather, and closed for cold.

Of course there had always been a husband to share that perfect cottage, a man who would love and cherish her. But try as she might, she hadn't been able, during the past two years, to visualize Jack Vinton as that husband. Again and again she had tried, but always the husband resembled Adam North.

"I got my questionnaire late this afternoon," Jack said. "Gosh, but it's a complicated affair."

Ruth looked at him, and suddenly felt fear. How awful for Jack, and thousands of young men like him, so full of health and promise, to be turned into what some people called cannon fodder. And yet, she further thought, she supposed it was as it should be. People had to fight to protect what was nearest right, and she knew that the American way of life was just that. There were many things wrong, maybe, but not so many things wrong with democracies as with some other forms of government. She'd heard Adam discuss it in terms like that, and they had stuck. And yet it was tragic to think that maybe men like Jack, and Peter Platt, and those other Linville boys who were now in the service might be killed or maimed. Certainly there must be something terribly wrong somewhere, when wars kept on happening, even though the world was supposed to have advanced far along the road toward being completely civilized.

She remembered something else Adam had said. The words came back to her even as Jack chatted about his questionnaire and the cottage. "We have gone back to a sort of mechanized primitiveness," Adam had said one day in the office, when he seemed low and discouraged about several matters. "Back in the Stone Age men used big sticks," he had added, "but now we use monsters called tanks, and outrageous birds called bombers."

"Here we are!" said Jack. He brought the car to a stop before a white picket gate. "Isn't it a beauty?"

"Yes," said Ruth softly. "It is!" She sat looking at the fence, the front yard and the cottage. It was small and neat and homey. "I love it," she added.

"Come on," Jack urged, jumping up. "Let's go have a look." He helped Ruth. "Sorry I didn't get the key, but we can look in the windows and explore the acre of land that goes with it."

This they did. The living room was square, with a wide fireplace, and bookshelves built low and generous on either side of the wide mantel. The moonlight was bright, and it did its best to help them, pouring silver into the rooms and reaching even to the farthest corners. They looked into the other rooms, also—and stood for some time beside a small, glass-enclosed porch on the south side of the cottage. Ruth caught her breath when she saw this, for it was as though her dream cottage had suddenly materialized right there before her eyes and nose and face, as her old Aunt Carrie had had a habit of saying.

"Plenty of room in the living room for all my books on engineering and tool-making," said Jack. "And plenty of room here for us to sit and read the Sunday papers." He stepped closer to Ruth, slipped his arm about her slender waist. "Can't you just see Jack, Junior, and Ruth the Second, sprawled out on the floor looking at the funnies?"

"No, my imagination doesn't go quite that far," Ruth said, trying to smile and failing miserably. "This is no world in which to bring children, Jack," she added. Not with things as they are—all upset, and—"

"And sugar shortages," Jack laughed. "Oh, well, everything's going to be all right, once we get going. Just wait until I join Peter and the other Linville fellows! We'll finish the scrap up in no time at all."

"I certainly hope so," Ruth said. "But until folks are sure it will, they oughtn't to bring babies into the world who'll have to grow up to—to be shot in World War III."

"You talk like a defeatist," Jack said, looking at her. "Don't do it, sweetness, please. Now that we're in it, we have to keep our chins up, and our shoulders to the wheel."

He drew her to him, laid his cheek against her hair. "But let's stop talking war. Let's talk about us."

"Oh, yes," said Ruth. "Forgive me for not answering when you told me about your questionnaire. I—just got to thinking about a lot of things, and—got sadder and sadder." She smiled up into Jack's brown eyes. "You say it's complicated?"

"Complicated as the devil. But I'll figure it out, Ruth. If I can figure out tool patterns and blueprints, surely I can figure out a draft questionnaire. Anyway, it's just a matter of routine, and—"

"Red tape?" said Ruth.

"Maybe," Jack said, smiling. "Only speak softly when you use that word, sweetness. It's fifth columnist talk. Now let's go look at the place where we're going to have our garden."

"They went around the cottage to where there was a small plot of land which Jack said was just crying out for cabbages and things!"

"All vegetables and no flowers?" said Ruth.

"Oh, flowers, too—definitely. Only I think most of them should be in the front yard, not back here." He pointed to a sheltered spot and said, "That's where we'll have a glass-covered shed for raising winter-time tomatoes and cucumbers."

It was late when they turned to go home. Jack took Ruth in his arms and kissed her as they stood beside the car.

"Darling," he said, his voice husky, "you do love me a little, don't you?"

Ruth kissed him back, trying with all her being to make herself feel that he was really the man for her. "I'm terribly fond of you, Jack," she said, "but—"

"Damn it all, Ruth," Jack said, with a touch of annoyance, "I don't want you to be fond of me. One can be fond of chocolate cake, or root beer, or an old maid aunt. Love's what I want from you."

"I know, Jack. I'm trying—honestly I am."

"Good girl," Jack said softly. (To Be Continued)

One thing definitely can be said of the Republican post-war advisory council conference just concluded here: The Old Guard still is in the saddle but they really tried to bend over backward to give the party's "bright young men" a place in the party councils.

When the opening session of the 40-odd present members of the "Council of 49" was held, Spangler was designated to appoint the committees, and out of his pocket he pulled the list.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, was named chairman of the foreign policy and international relations committee, and Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, chairman of the post-war enterprise, industry and employment committee.

Spangler couldn't possibly have done any better by the Old Guard. The only two other possibilities, so far as the convention lists and apparent appointment have been Sen. Charles L. McNary, minority leader of the upper house, who wasn't here; and

Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., minority leader of the lower house, who told us personally that he had asked to be excluded from all committees because of the pressure of his job in Congress.

From there on, the eight permanent committees which will try to hew out the major planks in the Republican platform between now and next summer are something of a different story.

On Vandenberg's foreign policy committee, "internationalist" Rep. Charles A. Eaton claims a majority, with such advocates of post-war collaboration as Sen. Warren R. Austin, of Vermont; Gov. Edward Martin, of Pennsylvania; and Rep. Francis P. Bolton, of Ohio. However, there wasn't much in the original committee draft to indicate that Eaton's "internationalist majority" had won an all-out victory. It certainly lagged behind the broad outlines suggested by the President, Wendell L. Willkie and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York.

On the permanent post-war enterprise, industry and employment committee, Gov. John W. Bricker, Ohio, a Taft conservative was made chairman, and former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Sen. Albert W. Hawkes, of New Jersey, was second in line. But the committee also included such party scrappers as Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin, of Connecticut, and Rep. Everett Dirksen, of Illinois.

On the other hand, Gov. Dewey drew the chairmanship of the government administration reform committee, and Governor Earl Warren, of California, also high in the list of "liberal" presidential possibilities, was given chairmanship of the social security and welfare committee.

Scattered through the committees where they can kick a lot of dust in the eyes of the Old Guard if they have a mind to, were such others as Arizona National Committeeman Kelland; Missouri Rep. Louis E. Miller; New Jersey Committeeman H. Alexander Smith; Michigan Willkieite, Mrs. Dudley Hay; Governors Dwight Griswold, of Nebraska, and Earl Snell of Oregon; and Rep. Charlie Halleck, of Indiana, among others.

Joint Meeting of Classes Of Grace Methodist Church Hear Mary Robinson Speak

"We've got to keep the people on the home front on the right road," Miss Mary Robinson, head of the Red Cross here, told members of the True Blue and Open Circle classes of the Grace Methodist Church Tuesday night at a joint meeting and potluck supper held in the dining room of the church.

In explaining the part of the Red Cross on the home front, Miss Robinson continued with examples of the kind of work it does. She cited the example of one soldier's family here in town who ruined the boy's chances for promotion and a furlough by sending a fake telegram to him telling him that his mother was seriously ill. The boy's aunt sent the telegram when his mother had received a letter from her son bearing an APO address. When Miss Robinson checked the authenticity of the wire, she found that the mother was at work—instead of on her deathbed as the telegram had indicated.

A more pleasant phase of Red Cross work on the home front, she related, is exemplified by the experience she had getting a notice of an extra ten days leave to a navy man, Miss Robinson delivered the telegram to the boy just as he was getting in a car to catch the train which would take him back to his base. The extra ten days gave him an opportunity to see his brother whom he had not seen for two years.

Before Miss Robinson's speech, the new officers of the True Blue class were announced by Mrs. A. N. Browning, the outgoing president, Miss Elizabeth Horney is the new president, Miss Francis Merriweather, vice president; Mrs. Harry Zimmerman, secretary; Mrs. Willard Perrill, assistant secretary and Mrs. Wallace Perrill, treasurer.

At the beginning of the program, Miss Martha Berend sang two songs, "Love Has Eyes" and "Sing Me To Sleep," accompanied by Miss Marian Christopher.

The potluck supper was served to the 50-odd members and guests present on one long table. Those present sat at the seven tables at which places were set during the meal and the following program. Large vases of nasturtiums, zinnias and coxcomb were placed advantageously throughout the room and on the tables.

Guests at the gathering were Miss Gladys Melson, Mrs. Orville Turner and Miss Ruth Haines.

At the close of the business, a social hour was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening, highlighted by music and games. Mrs. M. L. Clark and Mrs. William Humphries were the assisting hostesses, and delicious refreshments were served to the members and two guests, Miss Marguerite Mauger and Miss Kay Williams, present.

LaVaun Rector Is Again Feted Upon Coming Marriage

Miss LaVaun Rector, of Jeffersonville, the bride-elect of Cpl. Wayne Vannorsdall, was again feted upon her coming marriage of Sunday, September 19th, at a miscellaneous shower held at the Jeffersonville Methodist Church, Tuesday evening.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Marvin Brown, Mrs. Gene Heironimus, Mrs. Clyde Rings, Mrs. Lynn Straley and Mrs. Roy Baber. Miss Rector, Mrs. E. R. Rector, mother of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. Chester Vannorsdall, mother of the groom, received the guests, with the hostesses.

For this most delightful occasion, over one hundred guests assembled to fete this popular and charming young woman, and for the occasion, the church basement was attractively decorated in a pink, yellow and green color scheme. Several large tables were placed for the shower of gifts and the serving of the light refreshments, later in the evening. Tall yellow tapers, burning, graced the tables and the centerpiece attracting the most attention was of yellow and pink asters, most artistically arranged.

Following the shower of lovely gifts for which the guest of honor made response in her most winning manner, a clever contest was enjoyed by the numerous guests, after which Mrs. Elizabeth Dunkle lead the group singing of love songs, with Miss Martha Straley at the piano. Mrs. Dunkle favored with an appropriate song, which proved to be very entertaining to the group.

Miss Rector then capably rendered two accordion solos, "Rustic Dance" and "Ciribiribin."

Later in the evening, tempting refreshments were served the group and all lingered to congratulate the bride-to-be, upon her approaching marriage.

CRAIG'S

Coon Dog Trials To Be Held Near Buena Vista Sunday

Encouraged by the unexpected success and interest in their first venture of the kind, the Fayette County Coon Hunters Association today had virtually completed plans for a second field trial to be held on the Johnson and Kile farms about a mile north of Buena Vista next Sunday.

The cast for the field events will be in about the same location as at the previous event about two months ago and the finish again is to be in the woods on the banks of Rattlesnake Creek just east of the bridge.

While the first trials, undertaken admittedly as an experiment, were expected to attract many followers of the sport, even the most optimistic members of the FCCHA did not anticipate the turnout of more than 200 men, women and children who came for the start and stayed for the finish.

Word has been received by the committee that dogs will come not only from all over Ohio, but from at least three other states as well—Michigan, Tennessee and Kentucky. The most distant entry for two dogs was from Port Huron, Mich., nearly 300 miles north of here and just across the St. Clair River from the Canadian City of Sarnia.

Members of the committee and the secretary declined to even guess on the number of entries that would be loosed when the sport gets under way at 11 A. M. Sunday. However, there was confidence that it would be far greater than in the opening venture. The crowd, too, was expected to increase proportionately.

A pot of $250 cash money has been set out for the dogs at the end of the trail. A slightly larger slice of it will be divided between the first and second dogs in the treeing race and the remainder will be similarly split between the line dogs.

The association has arranged to make of the event an outing for the whole family. For those who do not bring their own lunches, there will be sandwiches and for those who do there will be the soft drink stand.

Any revenue from the trials and attendant activities is to go into the association's fund for restocking the county with raccoons bought from the state propagation farms.

With the start of the trials scheduled for 11 A. M. the last dog is not expected to be checked in until dusk. It will be almost an all-day affair.

SINKWICH ALSO GOOD BARGAINER

DETROIT, Sept. 15.—(P)—

Smiling Frankie Sinkwich, who will run, pass and kick for the Detroit Lions this football season, made a big impression here before he ever laid hands on a football for the pro team.

The whiz of the southern college gridirons, where he became an All-American, had owner Fred L. Mandel, Jr., of the Lions down on his one-yard line, figuratively speaking, before he got Frankie's name on a contract.

Sinkwich signed last night only after hours of conference. Frankie lined up at the negotiating table with his dad, Ignatius (Ignatz) Sinkwich, who operates a tavern in their home town of Youngstown, Mandel was all alone.

Finally Mandel emerged to announce the signing and pay tribute, incidentally, to the former Georgia star's class as a bargainer.

"If he can play football as well as he can argue about dough," Mandel said, "we ought to win the championship easily."

Mandel declined to say how much Frankie would be paid. Frankie, whom the U. S. Marines discharged because of physical disabilities, hustled to the Lions' training camp at a suburban golf course right after signing.

"I can hardly wait to put on a uniform," he said.

Grip on AA Is Tightened By Brewers

Milwaukee moved another step toward the American Association pennant last night, defeating Minneapolis 7-3 while second place Indianapolis was shutting out Toledo 2-0. The season ends Sunday.

Indianapolis remained three games behind the leaders after squeezing out the fourth-place Mud Hens behind the nine-hit pitching of Jim Trexler.

Although Preacher Roe held Louisville to five hits and struck out seven, Columbus dropped a 2-1 decision and fell to five games out of first place.

Kansas City moved into seventh place by a scant one point margin in splitting a double header with St. Paul, the Saints dropping to the cellar. The Blues took the first game 1-0 while losing the nightcap 5-1.

Endurance Mark Set by Rosalee At Croton Races

Rosalee, bred, trained, driven and owned by Tilden Richards, one of Fayette County's veteran horsemen, hung up something of an endurance mark for her equine friends at the Fairgrounds here to shoot at last week, according to word trickling back from the Fair races at Croton, near Cleveland.

The roan pacing mare, tough campaigner that she is, was started three days in a row and did not finish out of the money once. The first day she was three times second, the second day she won the 2:20 pace in straight heats and came back for the last day's races to finish second, third and second.

Three years ago, Rosalee won three straight and a nice trophy at the same track.

Scramble for Second Place Holds Interest in Majors

In the absence of anything resembling a pennant race, the major leagues are offering the next best thing—a spirited scramble for second place in both circuits.

The glamor and gold is not the same, but the struggle between the Washington Senators and Cleveland Indians in the American League and between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds in the National is just as

Cpl. Bettina Thinks Army Helped Him

By LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND, Sept. 15.—(P)—

Corporal Melio Bettina claims the army has made him a better fighter and intends to prove it tonight when he goes 10 rounds or less with Jimmy Bivins in Cleveland's Lakeland Stadium.

The southpawing military policeman is puzzled because Bivins is a 2 to 1 choice in the betting. "Not that the betting really means anything to me," he remarked, "but how Bivins should rate as the favorite is 'way over my head."

Bettina punched out a clean cut decision over the Cleveland Negro in November, 1941, and hasn't been beaten in 14 starts as a heavyweight.

Gymnasium hangers-on tried to explain the wagering odds to the corporal by pointing out that he has boxed only once since joining the army and that the Bivins of 1941 isn't the Bivins of today.

speed of maneuvers, but the tanks and motorized infantry continued to slog forward in pursuit of the retreating enemy.

Moscow, however, deliberately ignored a German admission that the Nazis had evacuated Bryansk, although it was evident that Gen. M. M. Popov's motorized columns were in full control of the situation in that area.

A Soviet war bulletin reported Russian troops engaged in offensive action in and around the city after slicing four of its five trunk rail lines, and dispatches indicated the Red army spearheads were biting further north toward the Smolensk salient.

Reds Are Modest

The Russians frequently have withheld announcements of the capture of important strongholds, allowing Berlin to broadcast accounts of "strategic" withdrawals before themselves proclaiming their victories, usually in a special order of the day by Premier Stalin. They are apparently following this procedure as regards Bryansk.

Further south along the Desna River valley, Moscow reported, the Red Army troops smashed close to Kiev, and one thrust placed them within three miles of Nezhin on the Kiev-Kurs Railroad 80 miles northeast of Kiev. Here the shattering force of the Soviet drive sent the Germans fleeing in disorder toward the Dnieper defense wall.

Altogether more than 4,300 Nazi troops were reported killed and 1,000 captured in yesterday's fighting, with a total bag of 350 liberated localities. Ninety-two German tanks and 13 planes were destroyed, according to the Soviet communique.

torrid as if the stake were first place.

The Senators, who finished seventh a year ago, are earnestly seeking the second slot this season, and in the last five days have put on a spurt of five consecutive victories. This drive, coupled with a double setback for Cleveland last night, was enough to place Washington again in the American League's runner-up spot.

Playing the Boston Red Sox in a night game, the Senators had their hands full, but a single by Gerry Priddy in the seventh inning knocked in the deciding run for a 3-2 victory.

At St. Louis the Indians, who previously had won six out of seven games, were tumbled twice by the Browns 3-0 and 7-1 and dropped back to third place by a game and a half.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who moved into second place last week end on the crest of a winning streak that numbered 14 victories in 15 games, were blanked 3-0 by the Boston Braves and saw their margin over the idle Cincinnati Reds shaved to half a game.

In the only other Senior Circuit encounter, the New York Giants and Philadelphia Phillies, who already were scheduled for a game at 11 o'clock (EWT) this morning, struggled to a 4-4 ten-inning tie in a night game called by baseball curfew rules at 1 o'clock this morning after twice being interrupted by weather. As the result today's program at Philadelphia was made into a morning double-header.

The New York Yankees downed the Philadelphia Athletics 6-5 with an inept exhibition in which Bill Zuber granted 11 bases on balls in 4 1-3 innings and Detroit divided a doubleheader with Chicago. The White Sox took the first 7-1 and the Tigers the second 7-5.

Series Opener Won By Ens' Strategy

By The Associated Press

Manager Jewell Ens of the Syracuse Chiefs opened the semi-final playoffs of the International League with Newark with a bit of strategy and today sits in the driver's seat.

With every one expecting the Chiefs to toss Tomas De La Cruz, slender Cuban, against the Bears' Walt (Monk) Dubiel, Ens sent Millard Howell to the hill.

The strategy worked. The Chiefs mastered Dubiel and Howell went on to win 6-2.

In the other bracket, the pennant winning Toronto Leafs downed the Montreal Royals, 5-2.
